WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—(P)—
Agreement with Herbert Hoover's demand for a new federal financial policy was voiced tonight by Chairman Henry P. Fletcher, of the republican national committee, in directing a fresh attack on claims of New Deal economic advances.

As Fletcher issued the first of a series of committee analyses deprecating the recovery role of the Roosevelt administration, democrats were quick to retort to the views expressed by the former president in his speech in New York last night.

Senator Black, democrat, Alabama, said "WH Hoover for New Miss Augusta Stanek, 22, of Spokane, told exuberantly today how she mastered speech again, she "could say only 'yes' and 'no' for a long time, and then only with desitation."

REV. WILLIAM M. ELLIOTT JR.

Changes in Prevailing Philosophy Of Life Are Noted by Rev. Elliott

A significant change is taking place in the prevailing philosophy of life as men and women are slowly beginning to realize their inadequacy to control life without the aid of the Divine Providence, the Rev. William M. Elliott Jr., pastor of the Druid Hills Presbyterian church, declared yesterday morning in his sermon.

He said in part:

New York harbor, but now it seemed so very small and helpless in that van texpanse of water. As I contemplated our littleness and the great forces of nature about us, I instinct the providence of the providence of nature about us, I instinct the providence of nature about us, I in

The most graphic of these is the last. There is the sudden gale that whips the water into lashing fury. There is the pitching craft, now on the crest, now in the trough; the loss of steering power; the heavy rolling of the unmanageable, clumsy vessel; and finally, the terror and desperation of the helpless crew.

George Herbert spoke truly when he said, "He that will learn to pray, let him go to sea." I well remember the feeling of utter helplessness which came over me in my only voyage across the Atlantic. Presbyterian church, declared yesterday morning in his sermon.

He said in part:

In the 107th Psalm the poet paints in rapid succession four pictures of men who have reached their extremity; travelers who have lost their way in a wilderness, captives held fast by iron fetters, sick men lying at death's door, and sailors caught in a heavy storm at sea.

It has been historically true that "the entrance into the riches of God has been through the bankruptey court of human devices." Some men find God only "when other helpers fail and comforts flee." The outlook must be mighty black before they will try the uplook. "When he slew them, then they sought him." "When my soul fainted within me, I remembered Jehovah."

Men at Extremity.

Here is a picture of men at their extremity—men who are overwhelmed by forces beyond their control. "They reel to and fro, and stagger like a drunken man, and are at their wits' end." These sailors had tried every device known to expert seamen in that day, but they were no match for the mighty sea. They had come to the end of their resources.

It may seem a strange thing to say, but this generation is slowly realizing its inadequacy. If one listens well to the life that stirs about him, and reads with discernment, he will detect, underneath all the garishness and boastfulness of our modern life, a growing distrust of earthly powers, achievements and possessions. Here are two recent statements which reveal this growing sense of inadequacy: "Salvation by knowledge is becoming described by the overwhelming conviction that I had nowhere else to go." Miss Payson, in her little book. "I Follow the Road" says: "When sorrows descended on me like a landslide I experimented with orayer a little." Men are like the ald Greek dramatists. When they hopelessly tangle the plot of their lives they swing a god from the wings by machinery to untangle the desperate situation. That may be unto the desperate situation. That may at all?

Pessimism Needed.

I submit that there is a real need in our modern world for a healthy pessimism—an admission of man's inability to meet all of life's situations alone. The great German theologian, Karl Barth, has said, "The end of complacency may be the first."

And on the view book. "I Follow the verwhelming conviction that I had nowhere else to go." Miss Payson, in her little book. My friend, have you come to the

And we are witnessing a significant change in the prevailing philosophy of life. Humanism, the philosophy of life. Humanism, the philosophy which claims that man is sufficient without God, has seen its best days. It has been losing its hold on people during the last five years. Humanism was born in the years of plenty, and must starve to death in adversity.

Notice that these sailors did not cry to God until they were desperate. Man is a proud creature, and he has always placed an unreasoning amount of confidence in his own inventions; and he will trust as long as he can in his wits—his cleverness and his

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

PENCILINGS WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—President Roosevelt has been fussing with the budget daily in his office for nearly two weeks now. His original blue pencil was long ago worn down and discarded. Budget Director Bell and Treasury Secretary Morgenthau generally run in whenever the President has an hour, and bring him a new one, not necessarily blue. They are the only counselors. The sessions are known to have been painful for all, and, apparently, without sensational results.

The way the big expenditures book stacks up now, the following expectations are reasonably certain: The permanent ordinary budget will remain unchanged, except that two more emergency expenditures will remain unchanged, except that two more emergency expenditures will be transferred to it, thus enlarging it about 20 per cent. One ing on their muskets, others unarmed, addition will be about $500,000,000 for the permanent civilian conservation corps. This will bring the permanent budget up to around the second about $300,000,000 for the permanent budget up to around the call of their barracks in case of another political coup.

What will be done with the emergency (relief) section has not been decided. It may be reduced possibly by one-half billion to a billion dollars. The exact amount may not even be included when the President sends his budget to congress in January. Apparently he wants to wait as long as possible to see what is needed.

NOVELTY Sharpest constitutional lawyers here habeased their own corpuses when they read the Louisville court decision on the Guffey coal act.

Scarcity of public comment was apparently due to the fact that few legal authorities like to say anything about a decision out loud where a judge can hear them unless they can say something nice. Published reviews of the decision indicated that Federal Judge Hamilton took a new position on the constitution and interstate commerce.

At least Senator Borah never heard of it before, and he is supposed to have read most constitutional arguments since the beginning of time. The law was apparently laid down that congressional jurisdiction over interstate commerce should be limited largely to what the states over interstate commerce should be limited largely to what the states fail to do. That is, congress should be permitted to determine its own jurisdiction and the courts should interfere only when congress invades particular rights reserved to the states. That means even the sky is not a limit.

As to whether they are substituted to devoted to blackmail, there is again devoted to blackmail, there is a variety of opinion. One proud young Catalonian, the head of a business house, insists that journalism here is a low and loathsome trade and that

Betting among supreme court experts is that the decision would not now be sustained. The supreme court justices reasoned exactly op-posite in the unanimous decision in the Schechter case, TIDDLYWINKS Best political mind readers here believe Senator Borah is playing the same game as Mr. Hoover. That is, they are sure he has a realistic view about his chances of capturing the republican nomination personally. Also that he intends to have a large say about who will get the nomination. In other words, if Mr. Hoover goes into the primaries, Mr. Borah will also, and vice versa. Each will see that the other doesn't get it. Each wants the next nominee and platform to represent his particular That means they will continue to talk like candidates indefinitely. Borah's real candidate is still supposed to be Senator Vandenberg. There are reasons also for suspecting that lately the name of Governor Landon may have been added to his private and very choice list.

STYLE What stunned the politicos here about Mr. Hoover's New York speech was the new style he has developed. He was never a phrase-maker. Caustic language, so popular nowadays, was always beyond his ken. Long sentences occasionally in his presidential days started from his shoe laces, encircled his entire frame and left enough dangling clauses to make a hat.

The right explanation behind the change is that Mr. Hoover employed his friend, Ben Allen, as publicity adviser before the speech at Oakland,

A German who fought in the war to end war and who has where the tendency first became evident.

Mr. Allen apparently has been following the success of such eminent modern political authors as Mr. Roosevelt, General Johnson, Father Coughlin and the late Huey Long.

UNEASINESS Mr. Poosevelt is getting a little nettled about all the budget prophecies appearing in the public prints. The other day he called in a sharp young Washington newsman who had written a story forecasting a half-billion slash. The personal conference lasted one hour and a half. It was the first time the President has done anything like that. He usually sees newsmen only in bunches, biweekly, at his press conferences.

The Multi-Millionaires Is Poor If Guardians Allow Him To Spend But $2 a Week

BY ROBERT QUILLEN. Men who make enough money to rank as prominent citizens usually develop into one of two extreme types, and thus invite the penalties that Nature provides for all extremists.

One mane becomes a waster. Because money is plentiful. he forgets its value and cost and loses all respect for it. He spends it needlessly, thoughtlessly, foolishly, without getting its value in return. If he dies in middle age, he leaves his family nothing but expensive tastes and debts. If he lives long, he finishes his days in poverty—eating the bread of charity, made doubly bitter by vain regrets.

The other type of man becomes a miser and robs himself of all that he gains. Because he was humiliated and shamed by poverty in his youth, he began his career with a determination to get rich. Resentment of pover-ty's hardships made him determined to share the luxuries of the wealthy. But years of getting and saving developed a mental habit that enslaved him. He lost the ability to spend money for pleasure.

And thus he tricked himself and doomed himself to poverty, for a man's real wealth is not measured by his possessions but by his ability to get and use and enjoy the good things of the world. What does it profit a man to have a million dollars if he can't spend And if he is forbidden to spend it, what does it matter whether he is forbidden by guardians or his own mind?

If he cannot enjoy the world's products and pleasures, he is poorand his poverty is no less real because it is fixed by his mind instead of his purse. says he is saving for his wife and children, but in this he fools himself again. Does he really desire that they enjoy his money? Well, how much does he give them now? They will get it when he dies, but his wife will be too old to enjoy it and his children will no longer need it. He isn't saving for them; he is saving because habit has enslaved him and he can't do anything else.

The only man who doesn't trick and defeat himself is the one who lays by enough to educate his children and supply the simple wants of old age and then enjoys the remainder while he can.

If "Silas Marner" is good material, then the "Five Towns" group by Ar-nold Bennett should also come into

The role of Silas Marner is scheduled for Lionel Barrymore. It is, if I remember correctly, the tale of a man who, in a trance of sorts rea man who, in a trance of sorts resulting from illness or an injury, takes the church funds. Then he spends the remainder of his life wearing in the mills, in order to pay back his debt in full, and is robbed of the lifetime's savings on the eve of restoring the missing sum. It is a lifetime's savings on the eve of re-storing the missing sum. It is a story of middle England in the early story of middl 19th century.

Dear Miss Chatfield: For three years I have been in love with a beau-tiful girl. We are both university graduates and have good positions. She naturally wants us to marry but my parents are opposed. They think she is not good enough for me and they constantly make remarks about they constantly make remarks about her that get on my nerves. I have tried to discuss the matter frankly with them but they laugh me down and don't take me seriously. They say I am far too young to get married and that I should wait, as my father did, until the age of 29 or 30. Marriage will probably end the close friendship between me and them. This friendship between me and them. This is an acute problem with many boys of my acquaintance. What do you advise? A CONSTANT READER.

Answer: A college degree, a good job, financial independence of his parents puts a boy in the position where he doesn't have to defer to his father and mother about marriage. Though his desire to have their sympathetic approval of his plans does him credit. The sociologists are pretty well agreed that early marriage for young people who love each other is desirable. Only recently at a great national conference of sociologists one of the speakers called upon parents to supplement the meager incomes of their sons and daughters so they might get married when love's call came. This plan was urged as the cure for the prevalent loose relationships between young people today.

Of course a very young boy may lack judgment in choosing a wife. He can be easily decoyed by a doll baby face. He can be completely fooled by a spoofing tongue. He is very susceptible to high voltage and he often mistakes it for the grand passion. But when he has loved the same girl for three years, when they are both educated and self-supporting and anxious to get married this ought to be as good a bet in the marriage gamble as any pair of parents could ask.

The young people who start the climb together seem to have more suc-cess in matrimony than those who marry after they have reached the top. The early years of struggle and striv-ing bind them together. The habit of marriage becomes firmly fixed upon them when they are at the habit-forming age. They begin like a couple of playmates, doing the same things, going to the same places and their tastes develop along the same lines. They haven't money to finance an extensive social career, which is always a hazard. They have their babies while they are in the bloom of youth and when the children grow up their fathers and mothers are yet young enough to be sympathetic and companionable with them. them when they are at the habit-formionable with them.

But what are you going to do with parents who cling to the old idea that a man must support his wife in toto and that he must not marry until he has a sizable sum saved, besides a salary large enough to take care of the financial survives that are in after the parents. to take care of the financial sur-prises that are in store for every bride and groom? What are you going to do with parents who be-lieve that a man must be 30 be-fore he knows his own mind and that any girl he marries in his early 20s will be later on a dismal disappointment to him? MINE STRIKE ENDED, WORKERS WILL RETURN of Idleness.

Alabama Operations To Be Resumed After 8 Weeks

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 17.—(P)
Work notices were posted at most Alabama mines today calling thousands of miners back to their jobs after eight weeks of idleness on strike.
Settlement of the long-drawn out stril: which brought death to one miner, and wounds to six others, was effected last night after Governor Bib
Graves had entered the negotiations.
Under the terms of the new contract which runs until April 1, 1937, the miners will be given 20 cents a day increase on a scale region.

mines could not reopen at increased wages.

For the miners, William Mitch, president of District No. 20, United Mine Workers of America, said the compromise had been accepted in spite of the fact that the men were entitled to all they had asked for. Mitch said he hoped the new scale would "work out satisfactorily."

Governor Graves, who abandoned his planned attendance at the Alabama-Georgia Tech football game yesterday, to aid in bringing about a settlement said, "It has shown there is a patriotic devotion in time of peace you going to do with parents who think their sons should marry princ-esses of the royal blood and that esses of the royal blood and that ordinary educated, competent young women are not good enough for them? There are a lot of parents like this. They never know when their children are grown and entitled to make their own decisions, even about love and marriage. The children simply have to table the parental advice, choose their own mates, marry and make the best of it. Most papas and mamas fall in line when they see their children happily married. This is the one thing that takes the bitterness out of the dose they are forced to swallow: To see their dire predictions fail to come true.

West opened the spade king.

The declarer held off the first two rounds of spades, winning the third with his ace and discarding a heart from dummy. He then played the ace and king of clubs from his own hand and then the ace and king of diamonds from dummy. A third round of diamonds was won by East's queen, and it was at this point that the crucial play was involved.

East knew, by simple arithmetic, that his partner could have only one more spade. Also that he was out of diamonds and, probably of clubs as well, since the declarer had clearly kept dummy's club queen for an entry. Seast-West needed two more tricks to defeat the contract. Yet East carelessly led the spade and poor West was forced to give declarer two heart tricks for his contract. Either a heart tricks for his contract is the result of the contract of th

GIRL ON TRIAL TODAY IN FATHER'S SLAYING

Edith Maxwell, 21-Year-Old Mountaineer, Faces Death Penalty Charge.

WISE, Va., Nov. 17.—(A)—While a cold rain beat against the gray brick courthouse where 12 men will be chosen tomorrow to say whether she mur-dered her blacksmith father, Edith Maxwell, 21-year-old school teacher, sat in her near-by jail cell today and optimistically predicted her ac-

In the tiny Pound community nestled in the heart of the Cumberland mountains made famous by John Fox Jr.'s "Trail of the Lonesome Pine," the 52-year-old father. Trigg Maxwell, quarreled with his pretty college-educated daughter when she returned home in the early morning hours on July 21.

Neighbors said they heard the quarrel and when they went to the home after hearing screams they found Maxwell dying on the floor of the typical slabboard mountain home.

Of Decatur Club But Won't Walk Under Ladders

By Sally Forth.

A CCORDING to the dictionary, superstition is a belief founded upon irrational feelings, but if that's true, nearly every one is suffering from unreasonable sensations, although one may scoff at the idea of believing in the supernatural. Even the season's debs are not without their pet antipathies and ideas along this line, as Sally discovered

Mary Hurt, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John S. Hurt, may ridicule the thought of being superstitious, but she still gets quite a kick from sleeping on wedding cake to learn the identity of her "big moment." Mary writes six names on six slips of paper, writes unknown on a seventh, and then proceeds to sleep with these and the cake under her pillow for seven consecutive nights.

Each of the seven mornings, she draws from the pillow one of the seven slips of paper without looking at the name written upon it. On the last morning the slip remaining is supposed to reveal to her the name of her most ardent admir-Mary admits that she does this, but she won't admit the re-

Dixie Woolford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Woolford Jr. doesn't mind black cats or thirteen people at a dinner party, or broken mirrors, but, in her opinion, walking under a ladder is nothing to be sneezed at, and it makes her "very unhappy." "Be-sides," she says, "something's al-ways liable to fall on top of you when you walk under a ladder."

Dodging black cats is one of Frances Lyle's pastimes, but then, Frances dodges cats of all colors, as she doesn't care for the feline species anyway. She hesitates about passing people coming down steps when she is going up, because she's always heard that something terrible is going to happen when she does. As for breaking mirrors, Frances does that often, and she hasn't seen any noticeable change in her luck.

It is said that the popular superstition of lighting three cigarets on a match began during the war, because by the time the third cigaret was lighted the enemy probably had sighted the spark and knew where to aim. But even with the war over, some of the current debbies try to avoid such a precarious occurrence. Betty Spalding says she doesn't believe in "that kind of stuff," but she doesn't like to walk under lad-ders. Black cats are just another fuzzy stail to Betsy, and she's particularly fond of kittens. Frances Austin isn't superstitious herself, but the Austins' cook is sufficiently so for the two of them. For this servant, who has been "in the family" years, never makes soup without boiling a nail along with the bone. She says it keeps trouble away. Sarah Kenan doesn't boil nails or dodge cats, but she seems satisfied with her luck just the same.

MRS. WARNER MARTIN has the reputation for being an exceedingly thoughtful person and the following story will prove she deserves the compliment. She heard Mrs. Charles E. Holcomb say she borrowed a Venetian blind duster from Miss Lucy Adams because she was unable to find one in Atlanta, and it was the one thing she needed so

Adams the duster loaned to Mrs. Holcomb, so she ordered anfrom Washington D. C. The duster has five fingers made of lambs wool and is mounted upon a short handle. You will be interested to read that the Venetian blind duater went to Margaret Holcomb's debut party disguised as an exquisite fan-shaped bouquet. The duster formed a perfect background for the yellow roses and pink sweetpeas combined with swainsona to form the fanshaped bouquet. The handle was wrapped in yellow ribBon and showered with swainsona. The design was cleverly worked out by Mrs. W. N. Woods Jr., and Mrs. Martin's card was enclosed with the gift.

Long after the flowers have wilted and are thrown away, the homely little duster will be pressed into household service and serve as a reminder of the auspicious day upon which Margaret made her formal bow to society.

THE APERITIF party given yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. E.
A. Cronheim at their Ansley Park home was one of the cleverest given for this season's deb-The ingenuity of the hosts was apparent in every detail. Claudia Smaw was the debutante honor guest at this novel affair.

Upon arrival at the Cronheim home the debbies and their escorts were directed by signs in clever rhyme to the basement of the home. Down rambling steps they went amid laughter and gayety until they reached the game room. They were greeted there by the hosts and honor guest whose welcome was as cheery as that offered by the big log fire burning at one end of

The bright red ceiling and crimson tiled floor lent a color-ful background to the gay decorations. Refreshments were served from small tables covered with red and white checked gingham cloths. White tapers burned in tall green glass bottles centering each table. These are only a few of the unique details charactering the party which was still going in full sway when Sally had to say goodby in time to put her column to bed.

If black were warmer than white, why should polar bears be white? And why should negroes in the trop-ics be black? The Bureau of Stand-ards of the United States Government ards of the United States Government found that heat rays pass more easily through open weaves of fabrics than through close weaves, and that the warmth of clothing has little to do with the color. Tropical people wear clothing of close weave to reflect heat rays. In direct sunlight, white reflects more rays than black, but this is not warmth derived from the material; and clothing worn at night or out of the sunlight is just as warm when white as when black, regardless of the temperature of the weather. Napoleon in Prison

The young man was Napoleon Bonaparte. If he had been judged guilty, and held prisoner for many years, the history of Europe would have been different. It seems almost certain that France would not have taken part in so much warfare. The lives of hundreds of thousands of Frenchmen, Italians, Germans and Englishmen might have been saved.

As it was, he was set free. The charge against him was called "false" There were many who thought he would help the new-born republic win battles "against the enemy."

Napoleon was born on the island of Corsica, not far from the French coast. As a boy he was sent to France, to attend a military school. At the age of 16 he became an officer in the French army.

France was a kingdom at that time, but trouble was a short distance ahead. Some persons were angry about the ways of the nobles and king. They felt that the common people were not being treated justly. This led to revolt. King Louis XVI and his queen were made prisoners, and were put to death. A large number of nobles also suffered the same fate.

While France was having hose troubles, Napoleon went back to Corsica. He wanted Corsica to free itself from France, and he also wanted self from France, and he also wanted power for himself.

Meeting with little success in Corsica, Napoleon left the island and sailed once more to France. Soon he helped to direct an attack on Toulon, which was in the hands of the British. The attack forced the British to leave the city.

In Paris there were thousands who wanted to bring back the old line of kings, to place a prince of the Bourbon family on the throne. Napoleon was chosen to help lead the fight against "the mob." He loaded cannon with grapeshot, and ordered them to be fired into the midst of people who were against the republic.

sided margin. Yet, Wallace Wade's team, defeated by Tech and by Auburn, swept to a 25-to-0 victory. When a team gets beat 25 to 0 there is no luck involved. It merely means it has been thoroughly outplayed.

There are a number of reasons for the defeat.

The first one is, of course, that Duke improved and played heads-up football.

Then, too, North Carolina hadn't played a difficult schedule and when the first real opposition came along, the team couldn't meet it. The toughest foes on the Tarheel schedule had been Tech and Tennessee and neither of them is a strong

It all makes Old Man Bill Alexander look very good. And his boys, too, for that matter. He set himself a defense which included all the essentials and he stopped all Duke had to offer while his boys got over a touchdown to win 6 to 0.

For a while, North Carolina was the only major southern team undefeated, or untied. And then it lost 25-to-0 to a team which had been defeated by Georgia Tech and by Auburn in shutout victories.

And the victory makes Wallace Wade look very good. For a while, he was lost in all the publicity from Chapel Hill. Mail carriers grew hump-backed carrying publicity about the Tarheels.

And along came Wade. The Tarheels were Wade

ROSE BOWLITIS.

Rose Bowlitis is a terrible disease. It is high time the football coaches found a serum which will make their teams immune.

They are worst when they get in the condition known as a "receptive mood." North Carolina reached the "receptive mood" stage a couple of weeks before the Duke game. Contacts were made. The Rose Bowl people were approached.

Carl Snavely is the real loser. He is a fine fellow and a fine coach. He had a football team which must be the best North Carolina ever had. It is well-coached and capable. It probably is one of the best teams in Dixie, able to give L. S. U. or Ala-

"MARCHING THROUGH GEORGIA."

When the War Between the States broke out some 74 years ago, there was a headmaster at the old war school of Louisiana named William Tecumseh Sherman. He liked the south and was a friend of the south. But he allowed he had taken the oath of allegiance when he graduated from West Point and he'd better get back up north. Even if he did wish to stay in the And even if he did like the cause of the south.

It was William T. Sherman and his "Bummers" who marched through Georgia and left a scar which isn't healed yet and which never will be healed.

His school at Baton Rouge was L. S. U. They seemed to have kept the habit down there, the old Sherman habit of marching through Georgia. L. S. U. looked great in winning, 13 to 0, from Georgia Saturday.

The defense was the most impressive thing about the L. S. U. Georgia looked good losing the game. But the rather astonishing fact remains that the L. S. U. team restricted this Georgia team to a total yardage of just 48 yards running with the football. The end play was the really outstanding feature. And the daring of the touchdown run by Fatherree on the old Statue of Liberty play was sensational. It was, everything considered, a foolish chance. It was not essentially good football to risk two points on a safety, or six on a touchdown. But they did it and Fatherree ran 105 yards to score. No one in the stands expected anything but a kick and the Georgia ends, driving straight in, put themselves out of the play.

THE AUBURN SPIRIT.

Reynolds (Tich) Tichenor was buried yesterday in a sweet and solemn service with his friends there. Men that he knew-Steg, Alex, Harry and all the boys he'd known.

He played for Auburn and Georgia, but somehow he was an Auburn man. And Tich used to tell a story which indicates that the old Auburn spirit has been flaming from the start. His father was the first president of the Auburn Polytechnic Institute.

The man who succeeded him had been in charge of the Confederate munition works at Augusta during the war. Early in the 70's, the buildings burned at Auburn. The Associated Press telephoned the old gentleman for a statement.

"Classes will go on as usual," he said. "Fortunately none of the professors or students were burned. Students make the school—not buildings."

BEING FOUGHT FOR PRO TITLE

Green Bay, Bears, Cardinals Lead Western Section, Giants Top East.

By George Kirksey.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(UP)— orget about the Rose Bowl and Su-ar Bowl candidates for a while, drop gar Bowl candidates for a while, drop the arguments over whether Prince-ton could beat California, whether Southern Methodist is better than Minnesota or whether North Carolina is superior to Marquette.

The college boys are putting on a thrilling battle for the mythical national champio ship, but it's nothing compared to the struggle going on in the National Football league for the

There are nine teams in the league, and seven of them still are in the running for the title. Two of them—Pittsburgh and Detroit—only outside chances, leaving five genuine contenders—the New York Giants and Brook-lay Dadgers in the acutern division. lyn Dodgers in the eastern division and the Green Bay Packers, Chicago Bears and Chicago Cardinals in the vestern division.

The Giants, with four victories and three defeats, lead the eastern division and are favored to win the champion-ship in that section for the third straight year. Green Bay and the two Chicago teams, the Bears and Packers, are waging a terrific fight for the western title. Green Bay holds a half-game lead over the Bears in the west, with six victories and two de-feats.

The winners of the eastern and western divisions will meet for the title in a play-off game Sunday, De-cember 15. The west has the choice of site this year and the game will be played at Chicago if either the Bears or Cardinals win in their section. If Green Bay wins, the Packers probably will agree to shift the play-off game to New York because of the off game to New York because of the Polo Grounds, where 50,000 persons can be accommodated in comparison to 15,000 capacity of the Green Bay in mid-December is likely to be prohibitive for football.

LAST YEAR CHAMPS.

The Giants won the world's title last year by defeating the Bears, 30-13, in the game which has since caused the giants to be termed "tennis shoe" champions. Discarding their football shoes for tennis shoes gave them better traction on the ice gridiron, the Giants scored four touchdowns in the final-period rally against a team which had won 13 straight games and hadn't been beaten by any team. In 1933, the first year of the league playoffs, the Bears won the title, defeating the Giants, 23-21.

Bears Defeated By Giants, 3 to 0

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—(P)—A field goal in the third period by Ken Strong, made three times before it became official, gave the New York Giants a 3-to-0 surprise victory over the Chicago Bears today in a National Professional Football league battle before 18,651 spectators at Wrigley field.

Halted on the Bear 13-yard line, the Giants called Strong into action for a fourth-down try at a field goal. His first attempt, from the 24-yard line, hit an upright and bounced back into the field. The Bears, however, were offside and New York had a first down on the 10. Again Strong place-kicked from the 14 this time and made it good. Both teams were offside and the maneuver was attempted again. Once more Strong split the uprights, but once again both teams were offside. On the fourth attempt Strong made good for the third time and the score counted.

Alabama's football team is better in two departments of play than the Crimson Rose Bowl champions of last year. And you may take the word of Coach W. A. Alexander, of Georgia Tech, for it. ROSE BOWL TILT

Tech Score Against 'Bama Was Planned Play Well Executed.

By Jack Troy.

By Jack Troy.

There will be no necessity of going out of the south to find two suitable opponents for the Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans this year. A football "natural" is in prospect.

For the first time promoters of the annual affair will have to offer a game that will rival the California Rose Bowl classic in interest.

There is, of course, no definite assurance that L. S. U. and Alabama will dispose of their next and final conference opponents. Which are Tulane and Vanderbilt, respectively.

The odds are that they will, however, and that the natural thing would be to match Old Lou and the Ramblers in Red in the Sugar Bowl battle on New Year's day.

Victory for L. S. U. over Tulane on November 30 would bring the Southeastern conference championship to Baton Rouge. The Bayou Tigers would end the conference warfare with a clean slate and with only one defeat for the year. The Rice Owls defeated L. S. U., 10 to 7, in the opening game of the year.

ONE TIDE LOSS.

Alabama, on the other hand, would end the season with only one conference defeat and a non-conference tie should the Tidesmen overpower Vandy on Thanksgiving Day.

There is a pretty strong suspicion that this current Alabama team is almost as able as the championship Rose Bowl team of last year that had Dixie Howell and Don Hutson as the featured performers.

And L. S. U., having gone through a murderous schedule with only one defeat, is conceded to have one of the greatest teams in the south.

So, all things being equal, a football "natural" would find the Crimson Tide, of Alabama, and Old Lou, of Baton Rouge, fighting it out in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans on New Year's day.

And anything the west coast could offer by way of a Rose Bowl game would naturally appear somewhat puny by comparison in so far as interest of the fans was concerned.

'36 Derby Champ

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 17.—(P) Bing Crosby of film and radio fame is ready to announce to the world that he has a potential Kentucky Derby champion.

"That's the Derby winner," said Crosby as he looked over five race hores he purchased recently in the cast. The horse he pointed out was Khayyam, a two-year-old by Omar Khayyam. Crosby's interest in racing boomed last year during the Santa Anita meeting, and now he has a creditable stable.

The Duke offense that couldn't-score on Georgia Tech and Auburn picked up a carload of dynamite in one game.

The same thing happened to Colgate, which had bogged down a trifle up to the Syracuse game, with Temple on the same wide road.

Two Star Backs.

Monk Meyer and Bill Shakespeare gave the crowd an exhibition of versatility and football skill it won't forget for some time. They kicked, ran and passed with superb skill.

It was unfortunate that the South Bend charge had to reach its climation on of the game's weakest spots, where so many decisions can be rendered in either direction.

There was a general feeling that the play before might have been persisted as the eight teams are matched gaining a six-point lead on a long pass and defending an intermediate and the lad of the same a

These episodes are all part of the breaks of football.

As the game was played, the two teams were about evenly matched. As Staten Island, N. Y., staged a public welcome for her famous son, Mr. and Mrs. Val Shakespeare, parents of Bill Shakespeare, of Notre Dame grid fame, gazed proudly at his picture. Shakespeare was the star for Notre Dame in the Army game Saturday, his pass in the last 30 seconds of play gave the Irish a 6 to 6 tie. Bill was greeted by several thou-sand of the citizenry when he stepped off the ferry at Staten Island and as the guest of honor was escorted by a motorcade to the George Cromwell Center, Staten Island's new recreatin pier, where Borough President Joseph A. Palma, who had set aside the day as "Bill Shakespeare Day," presented a trophy to the Rambler star. Bill's father is a fire captain and so John J. McElligott, commissioner of the New York city fire department, was one of the chief speakers at another reception at the Elks club attended by about 600 persons.

Conquerors of Tarheels Have Only Wolfpack To Beat Now.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 17 .- (P)-North Carolina's Tarheels sat up with the corpse of their national football championship hopes today while Duke's Blue Devils-the men who struck the fatal blow-just laughed and laughed.

Underdogs and picked to lose, the Blue Devils, piloted by the great "Ace" Parker, not only whipped the Tarheels but did it with such convincing gusto, 25 to 0, that North Carolina's Rose Bowl hopes wilted and died in the mud at Durham.

Whippings by Georgia Tech and Auburn killed the Duke Rose Bowl hopes weeks ago but unless North Carolina State springs an upset next Saturday, the Blue Devils will send the 1936 conference championship pennant to the masthead. Victorious in four tilts with conference members and the only undefeated team in the league, Duke could even suffer a tie in the State tilt and still win the titile.

in the State tilt and still win the title.

With the exception of Duke, which minded the mud not at all, all other Southern conference teams found the going entirely too heavy. Maryland was surprised by Washington and Lee and held to a scoreless tie although the Old Liners outplayed the Generals by a big margin and at Charlottesville, Virginia Tech's rampaging Gobblers had to content themselves with a scoreless tie with Virginia's Cavaliers.

with a scoreless tie with Virginia's Cavaliers.

State tuned up for the crucial meeting with Duke by running the wagon over Richmond University but although the Wolfpack gained huge chunks of yardage both overland and through the air the fighting Spiders yielded only one touchdown. Richmond found the State line entirely too tough to penetrate and that same Wolfpack forewall may cause Duke trouble.

Clemson barely eked out a 6-to-0 victory over Citadel and South Carolina was whipped by 20-to-7 by Furman and Virginia Military took a 14-to-6 trimming from Davidson.

The fireworks were displayed at Durham, however, where 47,000 amazed customers watched the Blue Devils halt the North Carolina running attack and use the Tarheel passes to their own advantage.

GUTHMAN SPURS ENVELOPE BUYERS

Early Purchase for First of Year Needs Urged To Avoid Yule Rush.

Envelopes - commercial envelopes such as are used for business correspondence and the like-are hardly classed as Christmas presents. Yet the time-honored caution: "Avoid the Christmas buying rush," applies in the case of envelopes as well as regular gift merchandise. Sig Guthman, who heads the Atlanta Envelope Company, pioneer envelope manufacturers, stresses this point in discussing the business outlook for the remainder of

"We're going to be busy, all right," "We're going to be busy, all right," he declares. "Scores and scores of companies want to get their stocks of stationery, and envelopes in particular, complete and ready for first of the year sales and advertising campaigns. They want to be ready to launch new and increased offensives right after the end of the year and they've got to have their ammunition on hand.

"The Atlanta Envelope Company is always glad to lend all possible co-operation to this end, speeding up deliveries and so on, but everyone concerned will be aided if such envelope orders are placed now, rather than waiting until the end of the year rush is an actuality."

The Atlanta Envelope Company, established in 1893, is the largest manufacturer of commercial envelopes exclusively in the southeast. This veteran organization manufactures practically every known type of commer-cial envelope, in addition to main-taining a well-equipped commercial printing department.

Mr. Guthman's company, some months ago, issued a most complete Postal Guide and Envelope Catalog, a few copies of which are still available, without charge, to any business executives making request on their business stationery. The Atlanta Envelope Company is located at 505-11 Stewart avenue.

The new Chevrolet models feature also a number of new color combinations. These features have brought vastly increased popularity to the Chevrolet, to such an extent that Chevrolet purchases this year already are far in excess of the company's expectations.

The East Point Chevrolet Company's sales staff, whose efficiency in introducing and demonstrating the new models is largely responsible for the company's remarkable sales record this month, includes W. C. Rodgers Jr., sales manager; W. V. Nichols, H. D. Wager, A. S. Burt, R. C. Bell, B. I. Coile, John Speer, Carlos Hopkins, E. W. Hood, B. W. Tidwell, J. R. Brown, L. J. Analgesic and Rubbing Oil, Mutton Suet Salve in Ever-Increasing Use.

The space once taken up by perhaps as many as 32 miscellaneous oils, salves, ointments and other remedial preparations may now be devoted to a single bottle or jar with not only proven but guaranteed efficacy, declares E. S. Morris, president of the Ni-Late Manufacturing Company, producers of Roznoile Analgesic and Rubbing Oil and Roznoile Mutton Suet Salve.

The amazing multiplicity of effective uses for these companion products known by the now-familiar term: "Thirty-two First Aids in One," is backed up by the Ni-Late Company's "satisfaction or money back" guarantee. Mr. Morris states.

As vital home necessities, as very valuable adjuncts to the athletic trainer's equipment, for compact use by campers and hunters, and as necessary parts of the office or factory medicine chest, these two products, Mr. Morris asserts, are without peer, so varied are their uses.

During these days of changeable weather, when colds are so prevalent, and when the skin so easily becomes chapped, both Roznoile Mutton Suet Salve and Roznoile Analgesic and Rubbing Oil are fulfilling, in many homes throughout the country, a very definite need. The former, inhaled

While the frenzied elephant was thus occupied, four more apes clambered up his sides. They sank their sharp fangs into that rough, thick hide. To the colossal Gudah, these were little more than pin pricks, but he was annoyed, and quickly he rid himself of his tormentors.

Once more Tarzan attempted to dissuade the question of the futile attack, but the great Hairy ones were filled with unquenchable fury. Eagerly they returned to the fray. Now Tarzan could not stand aloof while his allies fought; so he too joined that hopeless conflict!

much more profound reason for discontent widespread among the country's professional and business classes. An instance is the nationalist Denies Propaganda

Nahas Pasha flatly repudiated hints that Italian propaganda is behind the anti-British revolt or that the Egyptians are taking advantage of ain's preoccupation with the Italo Ethiopian crisis to gain their objec-"This is no mere student brawling," he asserted. "Although the party disapproves student disorders, the entire WAFD—in every free election we WAFD—in every free election we have won 95 per cent of the votes—also demands that Britain fulfill her promise of Egypt's independence and believes the time is propitious.

"We want to be Britain's ally, not her vassal. The WAFD, which means the majority of Egypt, has not the slightest pro-Italian sentiment.

"We in no wise want to exploit

We in no wise want to exploit present situation, but we oppose equally British and Italian imperial sm. We have no desire to aid Italy, but it is a great pity at this time when we want to co-operate with England to the fullest, Sir Samuel Hoare (British foreign secretary) has shown so little understanding.

"Hoare's Guild Hall speech was the spark which set off the present reaction, convincing the body of Egyp-tians that Britain does not intend to fulfill her promises. This easily may become as serious as in 1930 and
